

Inventory on the Move in this Weather

The weather is certainly giving us a run for our money this cookie season. Recognizing that we still have five weekends remaining of the season does not make it any warmer! This week of getting inventory from the baker, to the agents, and out to our cupboards will definitely test our Girl Scout powers. The bakery and our delivery agents are monitoring the weather and doing what they can to get inventory to our 80 counties. Show us your Girl Scout super powers of kindness, understanding and grace for everyone who is working to get inventory to us in a safe and timely matter. We are all in the same boat and the goal is to get inventory to everyone before the weather is upon us going into this weekend.

Work together, utilize your Service Unit pages, other troops, or the GSKH Cookie Swap for Troop Cookie Managers. The bonus to the cold weather is that it gives everyone the opportunity to pause and re-evaluate your cookie inventory levels and get caught up on administrative duties.

Why are Planned Orders important?

We base our weekly restock from the bakery on your planned order request. We take in a minimal account for inventory that may be needed for walk-ins but your Planned Order is what we strive to fill. The council does what you do as a troop, only at a much larger scale. And at the end of it all, every package counts and is important to every girl experience. Help us by making certain you are placing a Planned Order each week as needed, and exchanging when necessary.

Upcoming Dates

Next Planned Order: Sunday, February 23 by midnight

Next edition of Cookie Corner: Tuesday, February 25